IBY CABLE TO THE HERALD.

LONDON, Nov. 7, 1879. A Vienna despatch to the Times says:- "All he accounts from Constantinople unite in testifying to the consternation prevailing in the palace and at the Porte at the step taken by Sir Austen Layard, the British Ambassador. But the Turkish Consul General at Pesth has been empowered to formally contradict the sensational report that England had sent a note or ultimatum to Turkey, and to declare that the relations between Turkey and England will be on as triendly footing in the future as in the past. Moreover, a despatch from Constantinople says:- "Musurus Pacha, the Turkish Ambassador to London, having promised Lord Salisbury, the British Foreign Secretary, that the reforms insisted on by England shall be duly carried out, the British govern ment has countermanded the despatch of the squadron to Vourlah. The Porte, while avoidng precipitate action, is now deliberating upon the early execution of the reforms." A London despatch to the Liverpool Courier states that England merely postponed the despatch of the fleet, notifying Turkey that the fleet would proceed unless substantial action in the direction of reform be taken by a fixed date, which date the correspondent does not give. A later despatch from Constantinople says that Lord Salisbury, in consenting to countermand the despatch of the squadron, stipulated for the fulfilment of certain conditions by the Porte. TONE OF THE RUSSIAN PRESS.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily News, after stating that the report that the British fleet would proceed to the Gulf of Smyrna had caused embarrassment there, proceeds as follows :- "People say that if the Sultar removes Mahmoud Nedim Pacha, Minister of the Interior, and other Ministers in consequence of the menacing position of the Beaconsfield government, it would be a diplomatic defeat for Russia difficult to support. The Novoe Vremye says:— 'Evidently Lord Beaconsfield's Ministry aims either at a peaceful change of Turkish Ministers, which would practically place the Turkish central authority in Engand's hands, or at an open rupture, threatening Constantinople with scrious danger in either case. The Golos refers to the change in Lord Benconsfield's policy in which he lately professed to maintain the integrity and independence of Turkey. It says:—
The presence of the British fleet in the Gulf of Smyrna will open the eyes of Europe to the real cause, namely, England's implacable hatred of Russia, exhibited by the British Ministers at every convenient and inconvenient opportunity." PLEETS AND AMRASSADORS The Post's correspondent at Berlin telegraphs:-"The movements of the Austrian fleet are considered here to confirm the report that Austria is co-operating with England in the endeavor to enforce the execution of the Treaty of Berlin." A despatch from Malta reports that the departure of Admiral Hornby's squadron for Vourlah has been postponed for ten days. Other despatches maintain that the despatch of the British squadron to Vourlah has not been countermanded, but that Admiral Hornby has telegraphed that he is delayed at Malta by the unseaworthiness of the Temeraire. Count Zichy having returned from Constantinople, has been appointed by the Upper House of the Hungarian Diet a member of its Finance Committee. Count Ludof, who was Count Zichy's predecessor as Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to Turkey, will succeed him at that post. The Standard's despatch from Vienna says Midhat Pacha persists in resigning the Governorship of Syria. The Pall Mall Casette's despatch from Berlin reports that the agreement between Russia and Austria, in addition to providing for a general understanding in regard to general interests, also secures joint action if required for the protection of the interests of either Power in the Balkan peninsula, on the basis of the Treaty of Berlin. And it is not unimportant to note in this connection that the Golos declares that it is time for Russia to offer the Poles the hand of friendship and thus secure such allies in Germany and Austria that no Austro-German alliance will be dangerous to Russia.

MUSURUS PACHA'S REGRETS. The Times, in its leader this morning, confirms the statement that the British fleet will not go to Vourlah. The Foto has given positive assurances that it will no longer delay the execution of the reforms. Musurus Pacha visited Lord Salisbury Tuesday to express regret at the misunderstanding. He assured Lord Salisbury that there was no change in the Lord Salisbury, in reply, said the British government could admit of no further delay, and in its opinion, the Turkish Empire was falling to pieces under the present indolent conduct of affairs, but considering his, Musurus Pacha's assurances, the government would hold its hand.

THE REPITTING OF MAJOR MORBOW'S COM-MAND-CAPTAIN DODGE'S GALLANT COLORED COMPANY TO FIGHT APACHES.

INV TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.

DENVER. Col., Nov. 6, 1879. Company A, of the Sixth cavalry, Captain Campbell commanding, with Indian scouts and Lieutenant Gatewood left Fort Bayard, New Mexico, yesterday, the country between Fort Bayard and Camp Grant

Victoria evidently lost heavily in the fight on October 27. The Mexicans who passed some of his Indians report his loss at about twenty killed and wounded. The greatest activity prevails at military headquarters at Santa Fé and at Fort Bayard in refitting Morrow's command. One hundred and fifty horses are now at Fort Union and will be sent at once to Fort Bayard. Captain Dedge and his company of the Ninth cavalry, the gallant band who brought succor to Payne's command on Milk River, have been ordered to duty with Morrow's command. Meantime Major Morrow has taken the utmost caution to protect the settlements from Indian stracks, and detachments of troops have been placed at McEver's ranch, Chase's ranch on the Rio de Lasanimas, Hudson's Hot Springs, Burro Spring, Knight's ranch, he Cow Springs and Slocum's ranch on the Frisco River, pretty completely covering the country out of which Morrow has driven the Indians. General Hatch has ordered all possible facilities to be furnished to Morrow to reat his command so that he can take the field again shortly. Two mountain howitzers and 50 pack mules are being furnished Major Morrow. As soon as refitted Morrow will take the field and hunt down old Victoria and his band, Mexico or no Mexico.

MEXICAN MALCONTENTS.

SCHEMES SUPPOSED TO BE DEVISED BY THE "GOVERNMENT OF RESTORATION OF THE MEXICAN BEPUBLIC"-ORGANIZING A NA-TIONAL BANK.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6, 1879. By parties in this city who profess to be inti-mately acquainted with the movement, it is asserted that a very large proportion of the population of Mexico is dissatisfied with the government of President Diaz; that this dissatisfaction has taken the shape of an organized revolutionary government, which includes many of the most distinguished Mexican soldiers and politicians, and that an outbreak, which will involve several of the most important Mexican States, imminent. An agent of the "Government of Restoration of the Republic of Mexico," of which General Angel Maria Corrillo de Obornoz is President, is in this city endeavoring to negotiate for material aid to further their hemes for the overthrow of President Diaz. The agent invites capitalists, who are now considering the scheme, to supply the revolutionary government with cer-tain arms and military supplies, in re-turn for which they are to be granted, first, authority to organize a National Bank of Mexico, the notes of which are to be legal tender for all debts, public and private, and to be receivable in payment for public lands at the rate of $1 per acre, all the public lands of Mexico to be apart for this purpose; second, franchises for railways and telegraphs through-out Mexico, and subsidies in bonds and national bank notes sufficient for their construction; third, abolition of all duties on importations of goods from the United States into Mexico by land. The rights of immigrants are guaranteed, and taxation and service in the Mexican army for a stated period are to be remitted and religious toleration assured. There seems to be no doubt but that very ambitious men in Mexico are concerned in the movement, and some of the heaviest capitalists of the Pacific coast are reported to be now examining it with a view to engage in the enterprize if it promises success. By a private letter from a gentleman in Boston it is learned that the same scheme has been submitted to the capitalists who own the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. These gentlemen have already sent an agent to Mexico to endeavor to obtain from President Diaz the same franchises, so far as their company is concerned, and, failing in this, it is said they have promised to give the scheme their earnest atten-

THE DEAD WARRIOR.

ARRIVAL OF GENERAL HOOKER'S REMAINS IN CINCINNATI-ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FU-

The remains of General Hooker and their escort reached here at twenty minutes past nine o'clock tolight, and were met at the Little Miami depot by General Dickinson, Mayor Jacob and other members of the committee of soldiers and citi-zens. Lieutenant McNeil, United States artillery, with his guard, who had accompanied the remains, was relieved by Lieutenant Buckhardt, of the Thir-teenth infantry, with eight men from Newport gage car and placed in a common undertaker's wagon, the casket being too heavy for an ordinary hearse, and were driven to the Second Presbyterian Church, where they will lie in state until one o'clock to-morrow, the hour fixed for the burial,

The church has been prepared for the recepti of the remains with draped flags and floral offerings. The final arrangements for the funeral are in the hands of a committee appointed at a meeting to-day of representatives of the solidiers and citizens, ex-army officers, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Boards of Councilmen and Aldermen and the Chamber of Commerce. This committee is composed of General Dickinson, charman; Colonel Armstrong, Mayor McClurg, Major Foz, Colonel Max Mosler, Charles C. Jacobs, Major J. Morgan, Colonel L. M. Dayton, Colonel A. C. Jones, Major Jacob, Colonel R. M. Moore, General A. T. Goshorn, Colonel L. M. Dayton, Colonel A. C. Jones, Major Jacob, Colonel R. M. Moore, General A. C. Goshorn, Colonel L. M. Dayton, Colonel A. C. Jones, Major Jacob, Colonel R. M. Moore, General H. G. Kennett.

The body will for the present be placed in the family vault of W. S. Groesbeck, brother-in-law of General Hooker, at Spring Grove, three miles from the city. The funeral ceremony will be marked by the greatest simplicity. There will be no service at the cemetery, and, it is reported to-night, no firing over the grave, as the cemetery authorities will not allow it. The Board of Fire Commissioners has been requested to toll the bells as the funeral cortego passes, and various public buildings, hotels, &c., will fly flags at half-mast. General Hocker's staff, will be Grand Marshal of the procession, which will be composed as follows:—Grand Marshal and staff, Grand Army of the Republic, Soldiers and Seiors' Memorial Association; associations of the Fifth, Sixth, Ninth and Tenth Ohio and First and Seiors' Memorial Association of the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, the guard of honor, consisting of United States troops; the body of General Hooker, followed by his friends; Major J. MASKED BURGLARS AT WORK.

LARGE HAUL MADE FROM TWO WEALTHY OLD PARMERS - A FORTUNE STOWED AWAY IN A SAFE-DETAILS OF THE ENTRY AND THE EOB-BERY-AN UNAVAILING PURSUIT.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD, 1

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6, 1879. Particulars have just reached this city of a rob bery, by masked burglars, at Taggart's Corners, two miles north of Kennett Square, Chester county, Pa., that for the largeness of the sum taken and the audscity of the thieves exceeds anything of the kind that has occurred in the eastern part of the State. In a lo farm house near the cross roads lived George G. and John Bailey, an invalid sister and a young nicee. These were the only occupants of the house, and their lives were as uneventful as possibly could be. The brothers were very secretive in dispositio and penurious. They were known to have ready money when large interest was to be gained by the letting of it. Without being miserly they were exceedingly close. Their neighbors had not, however, given them the credit for being the capitalists which this morning's tale discloses. The house was two stories in height and all the windows and doors were firmly secured with bolts and bars.

stories in height and all the windows and doors stories in height and all the windows and doors were firmly secured with bolts and bars.

For forty years the three old people, brothers and sister, had been expecting the advent of burglars. Patience generally has its reward, and they came lastnight. The elder brother siept on the first floor, while the other brother has his room at the head of the stairs. The invalid sister and the young niece also had their rooms on the second floor. They retired early, and about twelve o'clock Mr. George G. Bailey, who siept on the ground floor, was rudely awakened by a shake and told to get up and find the key of the safe. Sitting upright in bed, he saw three masked men before him, two of whom brandished revolvers and the third held a light. Like a diplomatist the old man, trembling under the burden of age and deadly terror, declared that he did did not know where the key to the safe was. As a matter of fact, the key lay on the top of the safe itself. The safe was an antiquated affair, and when the burglars took a look at it as it stood in the corner of the old man's sleeping apartment they told its owner that they did not want the key.

The old man's head was soon enveloped in a blanket, and one of the two others went to work to make a thoroughfare to the contents of the "safe." An outer lock was wrenched off with a "jimmy," and, boldly attacking the hinges, the front door was torn open after about fifteen minutes work. Within the safe were found $115,000 in notes, mortgages, railroad bonds and other securities, $3,500 in bank bills and small change and $3,000 in gold. The bonds and securities were all taken out and carefully examined, the greatest part of them being rejected. Some Westhester railroad bonds were taken, however, together with the greenbacks and national bank notes. The bag containing the side of the safe where it could be taken up after the overhauling of the securities and papers, but strange as it may appear the burglars left the house without it.

After they had completed their search in the safe they rifled the old man's pockets, stealing a fine gold watch and all his loose money. They then left the house, leaving the wretched old man almost dead with fear. If was not until nearly four o'clock that he could summon courage to crawl up stairs and awaken his brother and the rest of the family.

awaken his brother and the rest of the family.

AN UNAVAILING PUBSUIT.

The slarm was carried to the nearest neighbors, and in the early morning light a band of usually peaceful country folk, armed with fiint-lock guns and pruning knives, might have been seen hastening villageward in pursuit of the robbers. The tracks of the mon could be plainly followed in the newly fallen snow until they neared Kennett square. Once in that village the burglars had adroitly walked on the sidewalks, which were covered by awnings, and by doubling on their tracks had obliterated all traces—at least so say villagers and country people, who, had they met the scoundrels, would have taken them dead or alive. There are those uncharitable enough to say that, like the hunter in the fable, they looked only for the tracks and not for the burglars.

RAPID TRANSIT.

The officers of the Manhattan Railway Company said yesterday that the section of the west side "L" road from 135th street to the Harlem River would not be completed for afteen or twenty days. The Second avenue "L" read will commence running to Second avenue "L" road will commence running to Sixty-seventh street on January 1, and the Third avenue route to the City Hall will be opened on the same day. The Iron for the station at Chatham square is under construction, and the officers say that it will not take long to fit it up. All pupils of the different schools are allowed to ride from the stations between their homes and schools for five cents, at all hours of the day, upon presentation of a card indorsed by the superintendents of those institutions. The patrons of the "L" roads can now purchase any amount of ten cent tickets on the east side as well as the west side routes.
